

La licence Webcenter Universal Content Management (ajoutée en novembre 2012) représente un sous-ensemble de Oracle Webcenter Content qui exclut l'usage de Record Management (Archivage légal) ainsi que celui de l'Imaging (Chaine de numérisation)

Le prix de ce bundle est réduit d'un tiers par rapport à la seule version qui existait (WebCenter Content)

Ci-dessous un extrait du descriptif des licences : (Voir le descriptif complet du contenu des deux licences)

Il existe toujours une tarification à l'utilisateur nommé bénéficiant de la même réduction de tarif.

Notes additionnelles du 15 mai 2013:

Dans le comparatif officiel, on parle de Products et de Features. Un Product fournit une ou plusieurs Features.

La licence WebCenter Universal Content Management comprend des produits et des Features isolées

Ce qui n'arrange pas la compréhension, c'est que ce qui est considéré comme une feature dans la licence WebCenter Content est désigné comme un product dans la licence WebCenter Universal Content Management.

Ex : Oracle WebCenter Content Conversion (qui est le seul product apparaissant dans la price list à coté de Java SE), pour la licence WebCenter Universal Content Management)

>>>>>>>>> Il reste un doute à traiter quant aux fonctionnalités de DAM qui seraient présentes ou non dans la licence WebCenter Universal Content Management (voir plus bas) <<<<<<<<<<

Voici en résumé la description des deux licences (Les products sont marqués en gras)

Licence Webcenter Content

- Content Management
 - Document Management
 - Digital Asset Management (DAM)

Question optionnelle concernant l'adapter pour Siebel:

Prerequis pour WebCenter Application Adapter (connecteur pour Siebel) : WebCenter Suite Plus or WebCenter Portal or WebCenter Content or WebCenter Imaging

>>>>>>>> Question : est ce que la licence WebCenter Universal Content Management est vraiment écartée de cette liste ?? <<<<<<<<<<<<

Les infos concernant WebCenter UCM sont sur:

http://docs.oracle.com/cd/E28280_01/doc.1111/e14860/webcenter.htm#BABBIHBB.

J'espère que ceci répond à la question.

Réponse PM (Jim) du 15 mai 2013

En ce qui concerne la question pour Siebel, je pense que la réponse est dans le fait que UCM est destiné aux clients voulant simplement faire de la gestion documentaire simple. Pour les clients voulant plus de fonctionnalité + intégration, il faut WebCenter Content.
